Early Life

Chris Hemsworth was born on August 11th of 1983 in Melbourne, Australia. Chris has two brothers, one older and one younger – both of whom are also actors. At first, Chris Hemsworth grew up exploring the famous Australian Outback, living by cattle stations near the desert among buffalo and crocodiles. His family then relocated back to Melbourne, where he attended high school. His family subsequently moved again to the Northern Territory and then to Phillip Island.

Early Career

Chris Hemsworth began his acting career with a variety of appearances in Australian television shows. This included roles on shows like "The Saddle Club," "Guinevere Jones," "Neighbors," and "Marshall Law." Chris Hemsworth took a major step forward when he auditioned for a role on "Home and Away," a major Australian soap opera. He eventually booked a recurring role and appeared in 171 episodes. He left the show of his own accord in 2007, as he wished to explore greater challenges.

entirely different challenge. Those involved in the American film industry were generally unfamiliar with Australian television, so Hemsworth was essentially starting from scratch.

His breakthrough came when he took the role of George Kirk (James Kirk's father) in 2009's "Star Trek" – a role that had been previously declined by Matt Damon. Although Hemsworth only appeared for 5 minutes in the film, it was enough to make many people curious about the up-and-coming actor. That year, he followed up his early success with a role in the film "A Perfect Getaway." In 2010, he booked another role in the film "Ca$h." At this point, many were predicting Hemsworth would soon become a Hollywood A-lister.

They were right. Hemsworth's biggest role yet came in 2011, when he played the role of Thor for the first time. Hemsworth was instantly on the radar as far as Hollywood was concerned, and he reprised his role in films like "The Avengers," "Thor: The Dark World," "Avengers: Age of Ultron," "Thor: Ragnarok," "Avengers: Infinity War," and "Avengers: Endgame."

Hemsworth has experienced considerable success outside of the Marvel Cinematic Universe as well. Films such as "The Cabin in the Woods," "Rush," and "Vacation" have won Hemsworth critical acclaim. Although they enjoyed less critical praise and box office success, Hemsworth also appeared in films like "Red Dawn," "Blackhat," "In the Heart of the Sea," "Snow White and the Huntsman," "The Huntsman: Winter War," "Ghostbusters," and "Men in Black: International."

Around 2018, it was announced that Hemsworth would star in two more films: "Extraction" and "Thor: Love and Thunder."

Personal Life

In 2010, Chris Hemsworth began dating Spanish actress Elsa Pataky. That year, they were married. They later had three children and relocated from Los Angeles to Australia.

Earnings

Chris Hemsworth enjoys some of the biggest salaries in Hollywood. 2013 alone, Chris Hemsworth earned $58 million thanks to roles in "Rush" and "Thor." Between June 2016 and June 2017, Chris earned $30 million from his various endeavors. Between June 2017 and June 2018, he earned $65 million. Between June 2018 and June 2019, Chris earned $75 million – giving him the rank of 24th on Forbes' list of highest-paid celebrities.

Real Estate

In 2013 Chris paid $4.8 million for a home in Malibu's Point Dume neighborhood. The seller was fellow Australian icon Paul Hogan. Just three years later Chris sold this home for $7 million, which was actually $500,000 ABOVE asking.

Back in Australia Chris reportedly spent $15 million constructing a large mansion in Byron Bay, New South Wales. Today this home is worth an estimated $30 million. This property, which sits on 4-acres, features a 160-foot rooftop infinity pool.

In November 2021 Chris reportedly paid $15 million for a 1,300 acre property in northeast Tasmania. The property has two miles of ocean frontage:
